...so far this has been a great experience for me and has allowed me to volunteer for a more active role within our Wellbeing group looking to promote health and wellbeing generally. I picked the self-directed route as this suited my workload. I found the system easy to access and navigated around the platform without issue using the Step-by-step guide. The support I received to get started was very prompt and professional and any messages I have initiated have been swiftly fielded. This gave me reassurance that the apprenticeship would be achievable remotely.

I have found the content to be high quality, slick and well organised, drawing from a range of multi-media sources, which suits my way of learning and has kept me engaged throughout. Uploading of evidence presents no problems and constructive feedback is promptly provided with opportunities suggested to elevate my learning further.

I feel I have boosted my knowledge considerably and have confidence I can embed this learning into my organisation.

...I like that I can jump on and work at my own pace and that if I get stuck I can contact my tutor for guidance. I like the videos, and visual aids on the course content as this suits my learner style.

I believe that the very best thing about this course is the personal support given by the tutors and team. The personal aspect of BeReady is brilliant, I really couldn't feel more supported and am enjoying this interaction. I am finding my knowledge is growing and the tasks are getting easier to understand. I have learned a lot from this course so far and it gives a great basis of understanding as to why I need to do things a certain way, and it has helped guide me in the right direction. I have had great interactions with every person I have spoken to and in terms of support you really can't get better in my opinion.

I have found the Apprenticeship to be very interesting and inclusive of all learning styles due to my skills coach's fantastic support.

The content itself is very useful for my role within JLA and I have used a lot of it in my training especially the time management techniques. I've not just used these myself, but I have incorporated it into my training for people within the business to help with heavy workload and the feedback has been excellent.

On the back of some of the modules a few of us are collaborating and will be delivering Stress Management Workshops across the business.

I have also found the PDP to be very helpful with my own development and keeping track of my goals and paired with my SWOT Analysis this should help me focus on key areas of improvements but also my opportunities going forward.
